InnoCielo Publisher – the Answer to Easy Information Exchange

Organizations require the frequent exchange of up-to-date information between various disciplines. The engineering department needs to provide maintenance staff, external contractors and other stakeholders with the latest versions of drawings.

Usually this information is in a file format that cannot be used easily outside the engineering department and therefore requires conversion into another format for reading purposes or to protect intellectual property.

Such information exchange is difficult if not impossible to manage when not handled automatically and with flexible systems. InnoCielo Publisher (formerly AutoManager Publisher) provides the answer for disclosing information managed in InnoCielo Meridian Enterprise to the rest of the enterprise.

Benefits

InnoCielo Publisher makes it possible for companies to efficiently meet the challenges of a complex, global, information exchange at any time throughout the lifecycle of a product, asset or facility.

InnoCielo Publisher is the key component when engineering data and documents in InnoCielo Meridian Enterprise must be available to non-engineering users. It enables the reliable and timely availability of documents in other systems such as Documentum, FileNet, Livelink, SAP, SharePoint, Autodesk Streamline, Lotus Notes, web portals or email.

Features

InnoCielo Publisher provides functionality for rendering and publishing engineering documents by:

- Automating the publishing process via publishing scenarios
- Supporting user, event and time triggered publishing scenarios
- Rendering documents into neutral formats like PDF, TIFF, DWF and more
- Publishing rendered documents to various locations such as InnoCielo Meridian Enterprise vaults, Windows file systems, ZIP files and custom target systems
- Logging if documents have been successfully processed
- Providing out-of-the-box functionality, in addition to supporting specific requirements by creating custom modules for rendering or publishing

Advantages

- Documents can be made available to users outside of Engineering
- Documents can be rendered into more accessible formats such as PDF, TIFF, DWF and more
- Documents can be published to other locations and systems such as document management systems
- Approved, released and as-built documents are available to collaboration partners at the right time and via the preferred medium

Results

- Automated information exchange processes
- Shorter turnaround times
- Improved reliability
- Better protection of intellectual property
- More efficiency
- Cost reduction
